“I love being here to serve seniors and see their health improve. I also truly enjoy taking the time to develop genuine relationships with them.”

About Josh Seo, MD

Dr. Josh Seo has loved learning about the human body since high school and was raised in a Christian family with a passion for serving others. This made it clear that his calling was to become a physician. Specializing in internal medicine, Dr. Seo says, “I love being here to serve seniors and see their health improve. I also truly enjoy taking the time to develop genuine relationships with them.”

Previously, Dr. Seo worked in personal training, served in the Canadian Armed Forces Primary Reserves, and taught and served in other capacities. He spends his personal time with family, shooting photography, weight training, playing drums and video games, and visiting beautiful places like Arches National Park in Utah.
