“I care very much about my patients and their health— their entire health, not just one diagnosis. I will work hard to make sure that they are living their best lives.”

About Margaret May, MSN, APRN, FNP-C

As a family nurse practitioner, Margaret May loves helping people live healthier and happier lives. “I care very much about my patients and their health— their entire health, not just one diagnosis. I will work hard to make sure that they are living their best lives,” she says. She appreciates the opportunity to care for the senior population. “There is something so special about seniors,” she says. She takes pride in being “honest and open with patients.” When she can, she likes adding humor during visits. One of her favorite parts of her profession is “giving people joy.”

In her free time, Margaret May enjoys exercising, reading, and traveling. She is also a huge fan of true crime podcasts and television shows.
