“It’s important that we continue to prioritize our seniors as they need more attention, love, and quality care.”

About Stacey Troublefield, MSN, AGNP

Stacey Troublefield’s “compassion for helping others” led her to the nursing field. “The renewed sense of job satisfaction every day is my favorite part of my profession. Serving and building relationships with patients in the community is one of the many things that motivate me,” she explains. She loves empowering patients and serving as their advocate. She especially enjoys caring for the senior population. “It’s important that we continue to prioritize our seniors as they need more attention, love, and quality care,” she says.

In her free time, Stacey Troublefield likes watching movies, especially with movie theater popcorn. Sometimes she even drives to the theater, purchases buttered popcorn, and takes it home to enjoy.
